

I am opposed to giving special treatment to the Banking Industry. Their appeal to the FCC is; "We only want to call people to let them know about the different services we have to offer". If this goes through, every telemarketer will have the same appeal because they would have the same rights under the law to market their services as well. We have to put a stop to this. Whats next, the grocery stores and restaurants calling us at dinner time to let us know about their specials and services they have to offer!
